

Why Study Atlantic History in Missouri?

- The University of Missouri is home to the Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy, a research leader in Atlantic history and political thought
- Missouri is a territory once controlled or claimed by Native Americans, France, Spain, and both North and South during the American Civil War
- The state is home to the National World War One Museum, the Truman Presidential Library, and the National Churchill Museum
- The University of Missouri is the oldest public institution of higher education west of the Mississippi

Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy

University of Missouri

The Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy at the University of Missouri invites applications for its one year Master's in Atlantic History and Politics. The program includes a nine-credit hour summer school with our partners at Oxford University, as well as opportunities to earn credit for experiential learning and internships.

Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy
 409 Jesse Hall
 Columbia, Missouri 65211
 573.882.3330

ONE YEAR MASTER'S IN
 ATLANTIC HISTORY & POLITICS

How do I apply?

Applications can be started by visiting democracyi.missouri.edu. Scholarships are available for outstanding applicants.

What do I need to apply?

- A strong undergraduate GPA
- Two letters of reference
- A personal statement that outlines why you are applying
- TOEFL score (for non-English speakers)

One Year Master's in Atlantic History and Politics

- Examines the connections and conflicts among the diverse peoples of the Atlantic basin, including the Americas, Africa, and Europe
- Covers the era of European empires in the early modern period through the age of revolutions and the more recent "American century"
- Situates the development of the United States in relation to the broader exchange of ideas, goods, and power across the Atlantic world

MA Degree

This one-year, 30-credit hour MA offers students a range of unique opportunities:

- Participation in the intellectual life of Missouri's thriving Kinder Institute, with class options in History and Political Science
- Study abroad at Oxford University
- Regular guest classes from visiting lecturers, including Missouri's partners at the University of Western Cape, South Africa
- Credit available for internship opportunities in research, public history, and academic programming
- Potential to continue research at the PhD level

Study Abroad

The MA kicks off with a 9-credit hour month of study at Oxford University

- Classes and small group tutorials run by Oxford faculty
- Academic events held at the Rothermere American Institute, the largest center for the study of the U.S. outside of North America, and Corpus Christi College, founded in 1517
- Students dine in the 16th century Hall and reside in Corpus Christi graduate housing
- Excursions to sites of historical interest in England

